LEADERS PLAN TO USE FORCE ON WORK BILL

CONCERN FELT OVER EXHAUSTION OF DOLE FUNDS

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 2. (AP)—Administration leaders contemplated the use of force tonight to pry open the bitter labor amendment deadlock that continued to hold captive the $4,880,000,000 relief bill.

When a second meeting of senate and house conferees late today failed to strike out or modify the requirement that one-third of the $900,000,000 for loans and grants to states be paid directly for labor, Roosevelt leaders at once called a meeting of their own.

Present were Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, Vice President Garner, the house Democratic conferees, and Senator McKellar of Tennessee, a senate Democratic conferee.

"Nothing was agreed upon," Robinson said afterward. "I am hoping they can reach an agreement tomorrow."

Drastic Step Likely

But it was indicated, nevertheless, that unless an agreement is reached soon, drastic steps to instruct the senate conferees to eliminate the controverted provision would be made. Either this or new senate conferees will be chosen. Leaders plainly were disturbed over the virtual exhaustion of "dole" funds.

Little immediate hope appeared for a quick agreement between the senate and house groups.

The meeting was adjourned subject to the call of the chairman, Glass. And despite Robinson's expression of hope for a quick agreement tomorrow, no meeting of the conferees had been called early tonight.

At the first meeting today, Senator Glass (D-Va.) offered a compromise to reduce the amount for direct labor on state projects under the projected $900,000,000 allocation from 33 and 1-3 to 25 per cent.

Representative Buchanan (D-Tex), chairman of the house conferees, turned this down and demanded that no percentage be fixed, although other house conferees proposed that a 10 per cent limit would be acceptable.

House conferees were demanding not only elimination or sharp modification of the direct labor amendment but also the ousting of the senate provision requiring senate confirmation of new relief officials appointed by the president. In addition, Buchanan said he wanted the language on construction of public building broadened in order to assure such projects for relief work.

Meanwhile 'dole" funds dwindled rapidly. High government officials said that, contrary to some published reports, only $9,000,000 in PWA funds remain for diversion to relief purposes without congressional action. This would last only two days at the present rate of expenditure. Nor would relief officials enlarge on indications given yesterday, that, since only $4,000,000 remained of their funds, general April relief grants might be withheld pending passage of the relief bill.

CHARRED BODIES

Ungvar, Czechoslovakia, April 2 (AP)—Fifteen charred bodies, only one of which could be identified, had been taken from the smoking ruins of a barn frequented by tramps today.

Michigan To Get 23 Millions For Highway Building

Lansing, Mich., April 2. (AP)—Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner said today he had been assured that Michigan will receive $23,000,000 from the federal government for road building.

Van Wagoner said $13,000,000 would go toward road construction proper, with the remainder going toward grade separation work. The money has not been granted by congress under the proposed $4,880,000,000 public works relief measure but the highway commissioner said he had assurance that legislation would be adopted and that the money would be available for Michigan expenditure.

Plans for the use of the money will be complete in a few days, the commissioner said.

ATTACK AIMED AT ROOSEVELT

Republicans in Mid-West Asked to Join Drive Against President

BY W. G. RAGSDALE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 2 (AP)—Amid budding Republican plans for 1936, word came from informed sources today that middle western partisans had been urged to pave the way for a direct campaign against President Roosevelt.

Instead of assailing him by indirection, and denouncing "new deal" works, as was done in the off-year campaigns of 1934, Republicans familiar with the plans for the middle western meeting said they hoped that from it would proceed a drive against the president, himself.

While they declined to be quoted, they said there was hope among them that the forthcoming meeting at Kansas City in May would blame the president, as the leader of the Democratic party, for what they said was the present woeful state of affairs.

One prominent Republican expressed himself in this manner:

"We tried indirection in the last campaign and got nowhere. If the Republicans are afraid to call the president by name in assailing new deal tactics, the party might as well fold up now and not have a 1936 campaign."

Five Point Program

In the wake of plans for the middle western meeting, came arrangements for a six state regional meeting that has been called for New England on April 30. To give it a character not altogether regional, they invited Representative Christianson from the middle western state of Minnesota to be one of the principal speakers.

New England Republicans said that the Boston meeting, like that in Kansas City, would discuss principles and not candidates.

To the Boston meeting will go the state chairmen, committeemen and committee women from Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Other prominent Republicans in those states also have been invited.

A five point program has been laid out for the Kansas City meeting.

Those familiar with the plan from its inception said the middle western Republicans would:

Confer on general plans for the 1936 campaign.

Work out a declaration of principles which they want embodied in the platform for that campaign.

Provide for a reorganization of the party in the middle west.

Organize a publicity bureau for the coming campaign.

They expected to assail roundly the Democrats on many counts, among them being the agricultural program; the deficit; the number of persons on relief; the growth of government bureaus which they said had put some 35,000,000 persons to subsisting either directly or indirectly on government funds; the so-called regimentation of industry, and the new work relief bill.

Liner Mauretania To Be Dismantled

London, April 2 (AP)—After more than 20 years among the fast Atlantic liners, the Mauretania will be broken up at Rosyth, Scotland, it was officially announced today.

(The Mauretania in August, 1929, went from New York to Plymouth in four days, 17 hours, 49 minutes.)

The 27 year old vessel in the next fortnight will sail on her last journey, with a skeleton crew and under her own steam, to the Scottish ship graveyard.

TYDINGS RAPS NRA EXTENSION

Maryland Senator Also Favors Repeal of Agriculture Act

Washington, April 2. (AP)—While criticism of the recovery administration piled up before the senate finance committee, another Democratic senator, Tydings of Maryland, joined with those opposing extension of NRA.

Tydings demanded repeal of the NRA and the AAA, contending it was "a question whether the country was helped" by them.

"Isn't it time," he asked the senate, "to repeal these monstrosities and re-establish world trade, restore our currency and revive our own markets?"

Meanwhile the recovery administration and the federal trade commission moved to investigate charges of anti-trust law violation by the rubber code authority.

Simultaneously the two agencies decided to call upon the code authority for explanation of charges that it sought to prevent competitive bidding on fire hose contracts in Milwaukee and other cities by advising the industry to disregard an executive order designed to provide competition.

Proceeding with the inquiry which developed the fire hose charges, the senate finance committee found an example of the small business man, who, while complaining against the unfair activities of a code authority, said he favored NRA and wanted its hour and wage provisions extended.

The witness was George S. Tracy, president of the Perkins-Tracy Printing company, of St. Paul, who contended that the code authority, dominated by big business, had sought to intimidate and coerce him in seeking a contract with the state of Minnesota.

Cabinet Crisis Confronts Spain

Madrid, April 2 (AP)—Alejandro Lerroux, veteran Spanish politician, tonight was trying again to solve the second Spanish republic's twelfth governmental crisis.

Lerroux' rightist - dominated cabinet resigned Saturday after extending clemency to 21 condemned rebels, and President Alcala Zamora almost immediately asked him to form another government.

Tonight persons close to Lerroux said his tentative ministerial line-up had been completed, with himself as premier and minister of war.

ICC HEARING IS POSTPONED

Rep. Hook Will Protest Consolidation of Ore Shipping

Washington, April 2 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission notified Representative Frank E Hook, (D-Mich.), today that the hearing on the proposed consolidation of ore shipping in upper Michigan has been postponed from April 4 to April 12. The hearing is to be held in Chicago before Examiner Stiles.

Hook said he had been informed that representatives of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce opposing the consolidation, asked for further time.

Hook will appear at the hearing to oppose the consolidation in the interests of Channing, Mich. which he contends will be "wiped out" by such a change. He had planned to leave for Chicago tomorrow, but will leave Thursday for his home in Ironwood and go to Chicago on the hearing date.

The commission has been asked to approve a proposal that the Chicago and Northwestern, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and Pacific and the Escanaba, Iron Mountain and Western consolidate the traffic, the road officials contending it would save approximately $82,000 annually.

Residents of the railroad center at Channing have been protesting the plan, contending it would make it a "deserted village" and that it would impose a severe burden upon residents who now own homes there.

Hook will appear to oppose the change, speaking primarily on behalf of the town. He arranged to have the hearing held in Chicago for the benefit of those wishing to attend who could not make the trip to Washington.

Search Is Spurred For Ray Hamilton

Memphis, Tenn., April 2 (AP)—Officers enlisted in the search for Raymond Hamilton were spurred to new effort today when they learned that the Texas outlaw visited the Memphis shopping district last week while officials were trying to pick up his trail in a half dozen states.

Police revealed that Hamilton and a bandit, with whom he robbed a bank and disarmed a posse in Mississippi late last Thursday, aparently had made Memphis their "headquarters" before and after the Mississippi venture.

Employes of a department store said a man resembling Hamilton and a companion came into the store Saturday morning. The man described as Hamilton purchased a pair of shoes, while his "pal" bought a hat.

Appropriation For Advertising Okehed

Lansing, Mich., April 2. (AP)—The Fenton-Bishop bill appropriating $200,000 during the next biennium for the advertising of Michigan's scenic attractions went to the governor tonight for signature.

The senate concurred in the measure, which the house previously passed after the representatives of various tourist and resort associations visited the capitol and urged immediate action.

DEMOCRATS IN HOUSE REGAIN SLIM CONTROL

QUEST FOR EARLY ADJOURNMENT IS CONTINUED

BY SAM B. CcCOOL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Mich., April 2 (AP)—A new political alignment faced the administration tonight in its quest for early adjournment as the legislature reconvened in the fourteenth week of its session.

The political division of the house changed for the third time as an outcome of Monday's election which returned a Democrat as a member of the first St. Clair county district. As a result Democrats now have a working majority of one.

While the return of Democrats to control of the house was regarded as a serious barrier to speedy enactment of the administration program, the house ways and means committee expedited its work on the budget with a series of bills appropriating funds for state hospitals and normal colleges.

Three Insurgents

Measures submitted tonight by Chairman M. Clyde Stout, of the ways and means committee, would increase the outlay for hospitals by approximately $1,000,000.

Mervin W. Tomlin, Port Huron Democrat, was elected a member of the house Monday to succeed Duncan J. McColl, Republican, who had resigned. Theoretically, the division in the house is now even, but Rep. William A. Ward, Republican, Thompsonville, has been too ill to attend the session to date. In his absence there will be 50 Democrats and 49 Republicans.

If the Democrats in the house vote as a unit they will be able to block any part of the administration program.

The administration's position will be all the more dangerous if three house insurgents continue their revolt from Republican ranks. Representatives H. Earl McNitt, Cadillac; William Green, Hillman, and Henry Douville, Alpena, recently voted with the Democrats on a show of party strength.

The Stout bills appropriate $1,417,335 a year to normals compared with the present outlay of $1,427,270. Hospitals would receive $4,490,130 against $3,380,000 at the present time. The difference would actually be less than $1,000,000, however, as $178,480 is included for the first time to the Mt. Pleasant branch of the Michigan Home and Training school. Normal school appropriations recommended are: Michigan State Normal, $527,635; Central State Teachers college, $210,200; Western State Normal, $511,000, and Northern State Teachers college, $168,500.

Other appropriations carried in the bills together with present outlays are:

	Recommended	Current Funds
State tuberculosis sanatorium	$270,675	$273,600
State psychopathic hospital	94,420	91,125
Ypsilanti hospital	470,744	370,500
Kalamazoo hospital	822,720	640,700
Pontiac hospital	504,255	392,900
Traverse City hospital	657,870	535,800
Newberry hospital	377,686	312,100
Ionia hospital	247,855	195,800
Farm colony for epileptics	267,250	215,500
Michigan home and training school	950,190	716,350

The bills also provide an appropriation of $13,050 for the state hospital commission for the first time.

Leopold Recovering From An Operation

Joliet, Ill., April 2 (AP)—Nathan Leopold, slayer along with Richard Loeb of little Bobby Franks of Chicago, tonight was reported recovering from an operation in the Statesville prison hospital. Leopold and Loeb are serving life terms for the murder several years ago.

Dr. Louis Brannon, prison physician in charge of the hospital, said that while the operation, performed two days ago, was regarded as a major one, Leopold's condition was by no means critical and that no relapse was anticipated.

Tax Bill Designed To Prevent Profit From War Written

BY PRESTON L. GROVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 2. (AP) — A drastic income tax bill aimed at squeezing every last vestige of profit out of war, and backed by an industrial draft so rigid that it had the front lines as an alternative, was made public tonight by the senate munitions committee.

A cardinal principle of the plan is "pay as you fight." It will be introduced next week after preliminary hearings are concluded.

Industrial war time earnings under the bill would be limited to three per cent and those industrial leaders found unwilling to "cooperate in the war effort" could be told to go to the trenches instead.

But while the measure would press heaviest on persons who in the last war reported excessive earnings, it also would reach into the pockets of the smaller earner to make every individual help the cost of conflict while it goes on.

Drastic Tax Feature

House leaders are planning to bring the McSwain bill out for a baptism of debate tomorrow in the house. That bill incorporates part of the proposals of Bernard M. Baruch, financier, who was chairman of the war industries board under President Wilson.

It was generally understood an effort would be made to amend the McSwain bill to attach to it some of the provisions carried in the committee plan drafted by John T. Flynn, economist advisor of the group.

The senate committee's program provides the following tax features for industry:

A 50 per cent tax on net profit on capital investment of six per cent or less.

A 100 per cent tax on all net profit in excess of six per cent.

For individuals it provided:

A normal tax of six per cent on all earnings above exemptions.

A surtax schedule which graduated up to a point where it took $2,800 of an income of $10,000.

A 94 per cent surtax on all net earnings in excess of $10,000.

Exemptions likewise were trimmed far below those prevailing in the present tax law.

Unmarried persons would have an exemption of $500, instead of the $1,000 in the present law. Married persons would have an exemption of $1,000 instead of $2,500, and exemptions of dependents would be cut from $400 in the present law to $100 in the proposed war law.

Industrial deductions from tax liability were described in the

DEFENSE ASKS FOR ACQUITTAL

Gov't Charge Unfounded Against Bankers, Lawyers Argue

Detroit, April 2 (AP)—Judge Ernest A. O'Brien, presiding at the trial of the three ranking officers of the closed First National Bank-Detroit, adjourned court today without ruling on a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

The motion was made immediately after the government rested its case against John Ballantyne Herbert L. Chittenden, and John H. Hart, charged with making false reports to the comptroller of currency regarding a $212,000 note signed by two junior officers of the bank.

O. L. Smith of the defense staff declared there was not "one single bit of evidence anywhere" to support the government's charge. Guy K. Bard, special assistant attorney general, resumed that the note represented a "fictitious and sham" transaction by means of which the defendants sought to conceal speculation in stock of the Detroit Bankers company.

Resume Arguments

Arguments on the motion will be resumed tomorrow.

Mark A. Wilson, former director of the bank, R. L. Hopkins, national bank examiner, and R. A. McLean, his assistant in 1931 when the alleged false reports were made were the last witnesses to appear for the government.

Wilson testified that he told Ballantyne and Chittenden, when he learned that a $212,000 trustee loan had been made to Herman A Leitner and Clarence D. Blesesd, that he regarded the transaction as illegal.

"I said I believed those responsible for the transaction might be held personally liable if a loss resulted," he said.

The defense brought out in cross examination that Wilson's doubts were in regard to the legality of the stock purchase made by Blessed and Leitner with proceeds of the loan, and not to the legality of the manner in which the transaction was carried on the books.

On re-direct examination Wilson testified the stock was purchased for the bank in order to recoup a loss on an earlier loan. He said he didn't know of any similar transaction in which the bank had engaged.

Death For Habitual Criminals Proposed

Boston, April 2 (AP)—Wholesale destruction of habitual criminals and hopeless victims of insanity was advocated tonight by Dr. Walter Beck, visiting professor of social and clinical psychology at Boston university's school of religious and social work.

The death of those who have proved to be socially unfit, he said would do more toward eliminating crime than anything else.

"There are thousands of persons in our institutions," he asserted, "who are hopelessly diseased in mind and body. x x x

"These persons, including the incurable criminals, are a detriment to society," he declared. "x x x They should not be allowed to live. Put them to death. Let a body of experts pass sentence."

Kansas City, April 2. (AP)—Bennie Moten, 38, who first stretched his hands across a piano keyboard when he was four years old, and who became one of the country's best known negro orchestra leaders, died here today after a tonsilectomy. A heart attack followed the operation.

GOP'S ENTIRE STATE TICKET GETS ELECTED

KEYWORTH WINS IN RACE WITH PAUL VOELKER

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Detroit, April 2 (AP)—Republicans viewed with satisfaction today a new mile post on their journey back to state dominance. It marked nearly complete recovery from the political tail spin into which the Democrats sent them in 1932 and 1933.

Practically complete returns from Monday's election disclosed that almost every county which went Democratic in the adverse years was back in the Republican fold. The sweep extended from Democratic strongholds in the upper peninsula to Wayne county. The latter, a stubborn Democratic bivouac since 1928, returned Republican majorities for the entire state ticket and elected a complete slate of Republican circuit judges.

Keyworth Winner

By a vote that averaged three to two in their favor the Republicans took from the Democrats the important state office of superintendent of public instruction. Maurice R. Keyworth, superintendent of schools in Hamtramck, defeated Paul F. Voelker, Democratic incumbent, in the closest race of the election. Keyworth's majority promised to be well over 100,000. When he takes office July 1 the Republicans will tighten their hold on the state administrative board—key body of the state administration—and will gain undisputed control over several other powerful bodies.

Justices William W. Potter and Nelson Sharpe, of the supreme bench, romped away from their Democratic opponents. With an indicated total vote of around 150,000 their majorities over Francis T. McDonald and W. A Neithercut were likely to exceed 150,000. A Republican friend of Governor Fitzgerald's—David H. Crowley, of Detroit—beat Edmund C. Shields, prominent Democrat, for membership of the University of Michigan board of regents. Mrs. Esther Marsh Cram, Republican incumbent, won the other regency handily over Charles M. Novak, Detroit Democrat.

A newcomer to state politics was named to the state board of education. Wynand Wiehers, president of Hope college, running on the Republican ticket, defeated W. R. Booker, of Muskegon Heights, by more than 100,000 votes. Veteran Republican incumbents were retained on the state board of agriculture. William H. Berkey, Cassopolis publisher, and Clark L. Brody, secretary-manager of the Michigan state farm bureau, decisively beat George M. Bolling, of Traverse City and Clarence E. Smith, of Bay county, Democrats.

An amendment to the state constitution to prevent a recurrence of last year's squabble in the legislature over an election dispute was adopted by more than two to one. It takes from the legislature authority to settle recount arguments involving state officers and places it in the hands of the state board of canvassers.

Delta Democratic

The backbone of the Democratic strength which elected a state administration in the presidential year of 1932 and repeated in the spring of 1933 was

CHICAGO GIVES KELLY BIG VOTE

Mayor Receives Record Plurality, Beats Cermak Mark

Chicago, April 2. (AP)—Jubilant Democrats steamrollered opposition today to elect Edward J. Kelly mayor of Chicago in a ballot deluge that gave him the largest vote ever received by a mayoral candidate here.

Aiming to roll up an imposing vote so that national Democratic leaders would "sit up and take notice," the Chicago Democratic machine swamped Emil C. Witten, Republican lawyer candidate, and Newton Jenkins, third party independent candidate.

With 2,900 of the 3,127 precincts counted, the vote stood:

Kelly—738,498.
Wetten—149,439.
Jenkins—81,655.

Early in the counting Kelly, who rose from a pick and shovel man to engineer to mayor by council appointment, passed the previous record vote, 671,189, established in 1931 by his assassinated predecessor in office, Anton Cermak, and bid fair to exceed the total 1932 plurality of 850,000 given President Roosevelt in Cook county in 1932.

Predicts Roosevelt Will Approve Bonus

El Paso, Tex., April 2. (AP)—James E. Van Zandt, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said here today that "it would be political suicide" for President Roosevelt to veto a bonus payment bill.

He predicted, however, that congress not only will approve the Patman bonus measure but will be able to override a veto if necessary. Van Zandt said that President Roosevelt is "too smart a politician" to resort to a veto.

Democratic leaders sought to break down the conference deadlock over one-third direct payment to labor clause in the work-relief bill.

Legislative battle plans for handling social security bill next week were discussed but not decided upon by house chieftains.

House scrutiny of the Mexican religious situation led to a request that the state department set forth its attitude on a resolution protesting alleged persecutions.

A plea to President Roosevelt to withdraw much "must" legislation pending a special session in November was being considered in congress.

Secretary Hull warned France that continuance of major discriminations against American goods would lead to denial of all tariff reductions being arranged in reciprocal trade treaties.

The senate munitions committee completed a drastic wartime tax bill aimed at eliminating profits from industry.

CAMPAIGN AIDS SEVERAL LINES

Escanaba Home Owners Show Interest In Furnishings

The movement now under way in Escanaba to encourage permanent property improvements may extend in many cases to individual purchases of household furnishings and conveniences outside of strictly building material lines, in the opinion of H. P. Lindsay, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

This is just a natural development, he pointed out yesterday, as a result of the attention that home owners are giving to new and needed home comforts.

"The immediate need, of course," Mr. Lindsay explained, "is to make the permanent improvements that will safeguard the home investment. This is the purpose of Title I of the National Housing Act. To prepare for making application for a loan, the home owner checks his property carefully to see what must be done and to estimate the cost of the improvements.

"In this study of home needs, it is quite probable he will find that furnishings and furniture and appliances have deteriorated or become obsolete, and it is more than likely that he will purchase many of these accessories as soon as family income will permit. It seems entirely probable that the variety of these needs will extend to furniture, draperies, linens, upholstering and furniture repair work, electrical appliances and other miscellaneous necessities and conveniences, even though financing for these items is not provided for by the Housing Act.

"Our people, I am quite sure, will not over-buy on any home improvements or furnishings. Rather, they will be inclined to budget expenditures against needs, which will result in an increasingly steady series of purchases for the home from a variety of retail lines.

"The spread of this money through the community will affect directly and immediately every line of business—a wholesome prospect for our entire business future."

Gerde Brothers Profit By Spare Time and Hobby

A fine example of what unemployed high school graduates can do with spare time, a negligible amount of money and a hobby can be found in the marionette show being staged by the Gerde brothers now in Escanaba. The performance was presented at the senior high school yesterday afternoon and will be shown at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph high school and at 1:10 and 4:00 this afternoon at the W. W. Oliver memorial auditorium.

Graduated from West high school in Minneapolis, these two young brothers, one 20 years old and the other 19, found themselves with plenty of spare time and little opportunity to find employment. Inspired by a neighbor who had a few puppets, the boys took up making some for their own amusement, and it turned into a very profitable venture. The boys, Alden and Duranger, made about forty of the little dolls and dressed them up in costumes of every description: cowboys, suave gentlemen, dancers, beautifully gowned ladies and constructed a complete orchestra with all the instruments. Slowly but gradually, they added to their equipment until their set crew complete.

Boys Are Modest

A dealer in nationally advertised radios heard of the boys' marionettes and he engaged them to put on their act, using one of his loud speaking units, as an advertising stunt. Their act proved to be so clever that a Minneapolis booking agency approached the boys and persuaded them into making a tour of the country. Starting shortly after Christmas, the boys purchased a second hand truck, packed their equipment and headed for Iowa and the middle west. After playing in that territory several weeks, their truck conked out on them, leaving them stranded. Undismayed, they returned home and a short time later started out again, this time using a small trailer. So far their trip has been very successful, and the boys are looking forward with much enthusiasm to the rest of their tour.

Quiet, modest and unassuming, the brothers are very businesslike and, watching backstage during their performance, one cannot but notice the efficiency and determination with which they go about the intricate operation of making their puppets perform. Both have their minds set on going to college but declare that it won't be for a year or so. They intend to capitalize on their act as long as the marionette field is still popular and not overcrowded (they are of the opinion that there is a good future in that field). They are not in a great hurry about getting to college as they feel that their travels throughout the country are as broadening as a college education. They are looking forward with much enthusiasm to their scheduled trip to the Pacific coast next year.

RESIGNS FROM BANK

Francis Taylor for the past five and a half years teller at the Newberry State Bank, has resigned from that position to go into conservation work. Mr. Taylor took the conservation examination about a month ago and received notice of his appointment a short time ago, starting on his new duties on Monday morning. PLAN WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

New State Sanatorium at Grayling Will Be Constructed

Lansing, Mich., April 2 (AP)—A new drive for the construction of a tuberculosis sanatorium in northern Michigan, held back during four depression years, was under way today.

Plans for starting the project were agreed upon at a conference between Governor Fitzgerald and members of the state tuberculosis sanatorium commission, legislative leaders, and a delegation from Gaylord where the proposed institution will be located.

Legislation will be pushed to set aside $250,000 from the general fund for plans and initial construction of the institution at Gaylord. The state planning commission will seek federal aid under the public works program in financing the proposed 200-bed institution.

The total cost of the proposed hospital was originally estimated at $500,000. Latest estimates however, claim it may be constructed for $400,000 or $450,000

Plan Intensive Drive

The conference also moved for a more intensified drive by the state to stamp out tuberculosis In addition to construction of the new hospital, plans are under way to do away with "competition between the counties and the state" in the hospitalization of patients The plan involves a reduction in the state subsidy and an increase in the charges levied at the state sanatorium at Howell.

A new tuberculosis hospital to serve the entire north country was authorized as far back as 1931.

Conferees virtually agreed upon a plan offered by the sanatorium commission to increase hospitalization charges at Howell from $2.03 to $3 a day per patient. The plan also involves a reduction in the state subsidy to counties from 75 cents to 50 cents a day for each patient.

Rep. Vernon J. Brown, Republican, Mason, declared that the state and counties are engaging in a "silly competition at the present time. The Howell institution is over crowded because of its low hospitalization charge while county institutions are empty."

The plan would also deny the state subsidy to counties which have no sanatoria. "Under present conditions," Brown said "counties which have been progressive enough to build sanatoria are penalized."

Governor Fitzgerald agreed with the plan despite a forecast from one source that many county institutions would be forced to close The governor replied that the proposal would tend to increase the number of local patients and reduce costs accordingly.

Dr. C. C. Slemons, commissioner of public health, expressed the opinion that sanatoria in Houghton aid Oakland counties will close regardless of whether the state subsidy is reduced.

Questions Gauge Your Knowledge of Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Health knowledge is the kind of information you should have immediately available in times of emergency. During the last 10 years it has become a significant part of the teaching in most schools.

In a recent survey of freshmen entering the University of Michigan, an attempt was made to find out to what extent the health knowledge given to pupils in high school had been assimilated. The modern method of testing provides the offering of a question with five possible answers, so that the student may indicate which answer is correct.

The first question was: Goiter is not now so prevalent in Michigan because (1) doctors have removed them; (2) climatic changes; (3) the use of iodized table salt; (4) the goiters are not being diagnosed; (5) more tonsils are removed.

The right answer is No. 3. It has been found that small amounts of iodine in the food are important in the prevention of simple goiter.

Surgeons have removed goiters that were a menace to health. These, however, are in most instances not simple goiters, but exophthalmic goiter, which overwhelms the body, due to overactivity of the thyroid.

It has not been shown that climate affects the incidence of goiter, nor does the removal of tonsils.

* * *

Another question was: The proper first-aid treatment of a finger cut is: (1) Suck it. (2) Put peroxide on it. (3) Let it bleed some, then elevate it, and allow it to seal up with a blood clot. (4) Wash it off with tap water. (5) Cover it with court-plaster moistened with saliva.

Almost everybody knows now that sucking a finger that has just been cut, or covering it with a plaster moistened with saliva, would be exceedingly bad treatment. Washing it off with tap water is hardly safe, because tap water may contain germs, although probably the menace of health would be slight.

It would not be so serious to put peroxide on the cut finger, except that peroxide when strong actually destroys tissue.

The correct method is to let the blood flow to carry out any infection; then coagulation will seal the wound and promote healing. Most doctors still believe, however, in the application of a mild antiseptic.

* * *

The third question was : The proper first aid for turning the ankle is: (1) Walk on it. (2) Manipulate it. (3) Complete rest and elevation. (4) Swab it with liniment. (5) Paint it with iodine.

It is bad for injured tissues to subject them to pressure, so that walking on the injured ankle or manipulating it would certainly be bad for it. Nothing is gained by rubbing a sprained ankle with liniment or by painting it with iodine. The right step is to elevate the foot and rest it so as to give the tissue opportunity to recover.

The doctor who is called to see a sprained ankle secures rest for these tissues by application of strips of adhesive tape or by suitable splinting or bracing.

* * *

A fourth question was: The most certain way to recover from a cold is: (1) Take a cathartic. (2) Take a good workout. (3) Go to bed. (4) Cut down on food. (5) Gargle the throat.

There is no reason why one who has a cold should take a cathartic, since this has nothing to do with a cold, but simply empties the bowels. A person with a cold is sick and should not indulge in overactivity.

Most persons who are sick will cut down on food without having this done for them, but as long as the bowels and digestion are working satisfactorily, there is no reason for cutting down on food with a cold.

Gargling the throat, under the best of circumstances, merely puts a fairly pleasant taste in the mouth and washes accumulated secretions away.

Therefore, the right answer as to what to do to recover from a cold is, first of all, to go to bed. Given a reasonable chance to recover under such circumstances, the body will probably do so.

According to a recent survey, if you drive at more than 40 miles an hour, your chances of having an accident are multiplied by 25.

TAX BILL IS DRAFTED, BANS WAR PROFITS

committee report as "much more severe" than those allowed in peace time income tax measures.

In an accompanying statement, the committee said the bill, which goes into effect in event of war, sets up an industrial management board.

With the declaration of war also, the industrial draft would go into effect whereby "all persons engaged as officers or directors of a porporation or persons in policy-forming positions in such corporations" would be "inducted into the armed forces of the United States" subject to the president's discretion.

Once inducted, the bill provided, "they will continue to remain with their respective corporations, but will be prohibited from accepting any other compensation than that paid by the army, and shall have rank and compensation appropriate thereto, not exceeding that of brigadier-general and shall be subject to military law and punishable under it."

The measure further provided that "at the will of the government," executives found unwilling to cooperate may be "shifted from the industrial management corps to the combat corps of the army."

Footprint Casts Evidence In Trial

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 2. (AP)—Prosecutor Albert J. Rapp introduced plaster casts of footprints, which he said were made by a man and woman walking side by side from the scene of the slaying of Mike Cerwinka last November, at the trial of the farmer's young widow today as an accessory in the murder.

The prosecutor also produced a boot worn by George Hawley, 24-year-old neighbor of the Cerwinkas, who is serving a life term for the murder and was returned here from Jackson prison as a state's witness, and fitted it to one of the casts. He said another shoe, taken from Mrs. Cerwinka by a deputy sheriff, would be submitted in evidence tomorrow.

Deputy George Randel testified the footprints from which the casts were made were found side by side leading away from the slain farmer's body. Mrs. Rose Hawley, mother of George, also took the stand.

Husband Of Anne Gould Says Wife Is Gone For Good

San Antonio, Tex., April 2. (AP)—His heiress wife is gone from their modest Texas home for good young Frank Meador said today and he is not going to try to bring her back.

The young bank clerk, who married Anne Gould, of New York, last December, was emphatic today in saying there is no hope in his mind of inducing her to return here.

"My wife will not return and I'm not leaving San Antonio, so I see no way in which the situation can possibly be patched up," said Meador. Anne is in Florida.

Meador admitted the simple life his wife led after they came here might have been an "indirect cause" for dissatisfaction and eventual separation.

Gov't Rejects Bids For Portable Camps

Washington, April 2. (AP)—Senator Duffy (D-Wis.) received word today that the government had rejected all bids for construction of portable type camps for the Civilian Conservation Corps and would continue to build them with local labor and materials.

The information, in a letter from Lieut. Col. W. J. McCaughey of the Quartermaster Corps, Chicago, set at rest reports Duffy had received that a large Louisiana mill would be awarded contracts for portable camps for Wisconsin and Michigan.

McCaughey said the Wisconsin camps would be constructed under the supervision of the commander of the CCC district at Sparta. The plan, he said, would accomplish the "desired spreading out" of work and materials which Duffy had suggested should be the aim of the government in building future camps.

Lumber interests of the state had protested that local materials would not be used if the portable type camp were adopted.

FRAZIER-LEMKE BILL IS ARGUED

Justice McReynolds Rebukes Attorney at Hearing

BY WILLIAM H. MYLANDER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 2 (AP)—The black-robed justices of the supreme court today bombarded attorneys who defended the new deal's Frazier-Lemke mortgage moratorium bill with critical questions and one of the lawyers was sternly rebuked by Justice McReynolds.

McReynolds, who declared in his recent dissent in the gold cases that the "constitution is gone," at one point interrupted sharply while Edwin A. Krauthoff, Chicago and Washington attorney was arguing for the law.

The lawyer assailed the joint stock land bank law, which he said was "ably defended" by Chief Justice Hughes in private practice. He added that the banking system was a "favorite child of the law" and a "device to enable men with capital to lend money to farmers without paying an income tax."

Lawyer Rebuked

Krauthoff continued with the assertion that such banks had "pressed loans" upon farmers and then "oppressed" them for collection during the depression.

His face even ruddier than usual, Justice McReynolds interrupted:

"Why do you address an argument like that to this court? It seems to me that you address an argument which this court could not consider with any self-respect."

Krauthoff apologized, but insisted he felt the court should consider the question of "whether bankers shall be allowed to dispossess farmers and make them peasants and tenants."

Earlier several justices, Brandeis, Sutherland, Roberts, Stone and McReynolds pressed Harry H. Peterson, Minnesota's attorney general, for a legal precedent for a Frazier-Lemke provision preventing mortgage-holders from taking over property securing the indebtedness.

The section under fire permits a farmer, by going into bankruptcy, to retain possession of mortgaged land during the five year moratorium by payment of a small rental. He also may clear his indebtedness at any time in that period by paying a "reasonable and just" sum fixed by appraisers.

Pleads Not Guilty To Double Murder

New York, April 2. (AP)—Dazed and dishevelled after a speedy passage through police routine, Thomas McFarland, 39, was arraigned on two first degree murder indictments today charging him with the slaying of his mother-in-law and her granddaughter.

McFarland, arrested shortly after the bodies of the two victims were found in their modest Brooklyn home yesterday, pleaded not guilty and mumbled "all right" when asked if he wanted the court to appoint a lawyer for him.

Police say he confessed killing his mother-in-law, Mrs. Nora Kelly, 68, and her granddaughter Florence McVey, 18, but that he was unable to assign a motive.

"I didn't know what I was doing," he said. He had been drinking.

Medical examiners reported both women had been attacked but McFarland said he was unable to remember.

Youth of Britain Learning Not To Drop "Haitches"

London (AP)—A studied effort is being made to stamp out the "cockney" accent in London schools.

Phonographs and records have been installed in every school to teach pupils correct diction, and the cockney teacher almost is a thing of the past.

The cockney accent, which corresponds roughly to New York bowery speech, is believed to be the worst handicap a boy can have after leaving school.

New York City comprises an area of 6,930,446 acres, or 308.86 square miles.

broken everywhere except in a handful of upper peninsula counties. Alger, Delta, Dickinson and Gogebic counties returned incomplete majorities for Voelker and other Democratic candidates. Other upstate counties such as Houghton and Marquette reported sound Republican preference. The contest was close in a few downstate Democratic strongholds such as Bay, Cass, Genesee and Monroe counties, but in most cases slender Republican majorities were granted. On the other hand counties like Macomb and Wayne, which often have gone Democratic, came through in support of the opposite party. The Republican majority in Wayne hovered around the 25,000 mark.

State Republican heads were elated over the outcome. They regarded it as significant in view of the approach of a presidential year in which the Republican state slate will be opposed by Democrats who will have the active backing of the national administration. Howard C. Lawrence, chairman of the Republican state central committee, declared the election established hat the "people of Michigan fundamentally prefer Republican principles and administration." Governor Fitzgerald believed the election was an endorsement of the state administration and the Republican legislature.

Republican leaders were particularly pleased with the success of Keyworth. The whole campaign revolved around the contest for superintendent of public instruction. Voelker had attached himself to a slogan $25,000,000 a year for the schools." He won wide sympathy from parents and teachers. Governor Fitzgerald and Keyworth, although fearful it might have a bad political reaction, refused to concede that an arbitrary sum of that amount is needed. They pledged themselves to provide as much state aid as is needed to adequately operate the schools, and no more. They estimated about $20,000,000 a year will be required. The governor declared the state can provide that much and still keep the budget in balance.

The Republican victory gives the party five instead of four of the seven votes on the state administrative board. It gives them two to one control of the state board of auditors—the body which supervises the capital buildings and dispenses much patronage. The state board of tax administration, which administrates the sales tax and controls hundreds of state jobs becomes three to one Republican instead of two and two.

The one sore spot left by the election, as far as the Republicans were concerned, was partly alleviated today. Democratic house leaders said they would cooperate rather than attempt to organize to block the administration legislative program. A strange quirk of votes put a Democrat in the house to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of a Republican member. In the first St. Clair county district M. L. Tomlin, Democrat, was named to succeed Rep. Duncan J. McColl. This split the membership squarely in two—fifty Republicans and fifty Democrats—and destroyed a previous Republican majority. Otherwise St. Clair county went Republican.

Progressives Show Wisconsin Strength

Milwaukee, Wis., April 2 (AP)—The new Progressive party got off to a flying start tonight in its second test at the polls.

With two important state senatorial posts at stake in special elections, Progressive candidates took early and substantial leads.

In the 27th district the Progressive, E. M. Rowlands, led in all three counties. His vote in 35 out of 103 precincts was 4116; Isaac Evans, Democrat, had 2779; and Levi Bancroft, Republican, 585.

In the northern Wisconsin 12th district, Joseph E. McDermid, the new party's nominee, far outdistanced his rivals in the early returns. In 41 precincts out of 151, McDermid totaled 4040; J. H. Carroll, Republican, had 1722; and Harold DeGracie, Democratic, 725.

REPUBLICANS WIN

REPUBLICANISM in Michigan, started on its return to reestablishment in control of this state's governmental affairs at the elections of last fall, further consolidated its forces at the state election Monday by the apparent election of the entire Republican state ticket. Early returns on Monday night showed the Republican candidates carrying down state counties by considerable margins, and as the tabulation of ballots continued it was evident that inroads were being recorded on former Democratic strongholds in the large metropolitan centers. Even Wayne county, strongly Democratic for the past four years, gave substantial Republican majorities in the first one hundred precincts to report.

While the Democratic forces apparently lost their entire state ticket that party gained considerable satisfaction by electing a Democratic state representative to fill a vacancy in Bay county, thus returning the lower house of the state legislature to a fifty-fifty party division, and further endangering the legislative program now being urged before the state's law makers by Gov. Fitzgerald.

RELIEF FUNDS

IT TOOK a long time to do it, but the $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill finally got passed; and the interesting question now is, What is all the money going to be spent for?

The prime purpose, of course, is to put men to work, and almost any program that accomplishes this end will be a good one. But there are ways and ways of doing it.

One way is illustrated by the CWA project of a year ago. This did give men work and it did get some needed jobs done, but there was a great deal of waste motion to it. As far as tangible accomplishments are concerned, it did not begin to be worth the money it cost.

Another way is involved in the large-scale construction of needed public works. And while a program of this kind is necessarily hard to start, because of the time taken by getting blueprints, contracts, and so on in shape, it is the sort of thing that pays for itself in more ways than one.

Think of the big jobs that await the doing in this country. We could very profitably spend hundreds of millions on flood and erosion control alone, for instance, in our great river valleys. We could spend as much more on the colossal job of replacing our urban and rural slums with houses fit for Americans to live in. We would be amply repaid for almost any sum we cared to put into reforestation.

There are dams and bridges to be built, grade crossing elimination schemes to be carried out, public recreational centers to be devised, highways to be built—a long list of things which would be well worth doing even if we had no unemployment problem at all.

Used on projects like these, the $4,880,000,000 would have a double usefulness. It would accomplish its primary purpose of taking men off the dole and stimulating private industry, and it would be an investment in the nation's physical plant which would pay for itself many times over in the coming years.

We have allowed that plant to deteriorate pretty badly in the last few decades. To make it the magnificent productive instrument that nature intended, we must spend something for upkeep and repair.

The new work-relief bill gives us the opportunity of a lifetime. If the money is wisely spent, we shall eventually find it one of the best investments we ever made.

CONGRESSMEN STRIKE BACK

SOMETHING seems to be coming over our congressmen — or over some of them, at any rate. They are beginning to bark back at their constituents.

First we have John S. McGroarty of California, who was irked beyond endurance by some of the silly letters he received and who finally wrote to a voter and invited him to "please take two running jumps and go to hell."

Next Ohio's Stephen M. Young had a similar outburst. To a constituent who objected to his support of a certain measure, Mr. Young replied that he was going to keep on supporting it and that all who disagreed with him could go to the same place that Mr. McGroarty told his constituent to visit.

Somehow there is something rather encouraging about these replies. A congressman must be responsive to sentiment in his own district, of course; but he must also be his own man, with a mind of his own, ready to follow the course he things best and take the consequences at the polls.

FORGOTTEN IN PRISON

GOV. MIKE CONNER of Mississippi has discovered that the "forgotten man" has a number of representatives in prison.

Many convicts, he found, are overlooked by the parole board because they have no money, no family, and no friends to bring their cases before it.

They may deserve release just as much as the men who are paroled, but because everybody has forgotten about them, they get no consideration.

In an effort to set matters right, Gov. Conner has been personally interviewing such convicts. Altogether, he expects to hear at least 150 long-termers tell their stories.

His action reflects credit on him, and also indicates a weakness not uncommon in parole systems. Whether a prisoner is paroled should not depend on the influence he can muster.

It is the board's responsibility to examine all prisoners' cases without waiting to be prodded.

SPENDING COMPLEX

A PRECISE count has been made of the pending appropriation bills now before congress and a grand total of $180,000,000,000 is being asked for one cause or another. Appropriations of $100,000 have been left as mere small change. Why not appropriate all the wealth there is, spend it all at once, and call it a day?

SUPERIOR PEOPLE

THE Filipinos, in the opinion of Governor General Frank Murphy, who is home for a brief visit after nearly two years in the islands, are a superior race. In support of this conclusion he offers what seems to be the most convincing sort of evidence.

During his two years in the Philippines, Mr. Murphy says, the government's expenditures have been less than its income and there have been no increases in taxes. Their experiments in government under the provisional form of rule given them by this country shows their astuteness in politics and he anticipates success if they are given executive as well as legislative power.

If the Filipinos are actually living within their income and avoiding the necessity of increasing taxes their status as a superior people hardly can be questioned. They should not only be given full authority to administer their own government, but they might even be given some kind of a protectorate over ours. —Marquette Mining Journal.

With those dust storms increasing, let's hope the government does something for the land's sake.

Florida man captures eight-ton whale. If he's a typical fisherman, he'll have it mounted and move in his furniture.

Washington Bureau of Standards discovers "radio roof" to the world 450 miles up. No wonder—every time we listen in it seems someone's raising it.

The suggestion that our manufacturers go to the front in time of war isn't so dumb. They ought to be pretty good on the firing line.

Oklahoma supreme court stated recently: "We have went into the case further than we should." But not far enough into the grammar.

CHAPTER XVII

The officer nodded to Norman Happ and said, "All right, you can get out."

Happ said, "This is my father's house."

The officer turned to Caise. "You too," he said.

"But," Caise protested. I—"

The officer scowled, strode to the center of the room and said "Listen, both of you guys, this is no place for you to pull your heroics. Get started, and give us a chance to get this thing cleaned up."

Norman Happ stepped past Millicent toward Caise. "I've got something to say to you, Bob," he said.

"Aw, forget it." Bob Caise said. "You don't know what you're talking about."

"That," Happ told him, "remains to be seen."

The officer jerked his head toward Millicent. "Come over here," he said. "I want to talk with you."

She followed him to the window. Young Happ and Robert Caise stood belligerently by the doorway, talking in low undertones. The officer glanced at them, frowned, shrugged his shoulders, turned to Millicent, and said, "What's your name?"

"Millicent."

"Millicent what?"

"Graves."

"How long you been here?"

"Just a day or two. I haven't even got settled yet."

"You're working for Happ?"

"Yes."

She took a deep breath, then faced him and said, "Really, I'm very much upset. All of these things can't make a great deal of difference. Mr. Happ knows all about me. Won't you please get your information from him?"

"Well, why don't you tell it?"

"Because I can't see that it's any of your business, and there are certain reasons why I don't care to go into all of those details about my private affairs."

"Oh, all right," the officer said "What time did you go to bed last night?"

"Really," she told him, "I don't know. I was very tired, but I had some things to do after I entered my room. I sat down in the chair and fell sound asleep. I woke up later—I don't know how much later. I was cold and cramped."

* * *

Norman Happ, standing by the door, turned and came striding over toward them, "Miss Graves," he said.

She turned to face him.

The officer frowned.

Norman Happ, disregarding the officer's frown, stared steadily at Millicent. Something in his eyes seemed to give her new strength, brought up a wild surge of hope in her bosom, a hope that, in some way, a solution would be found for her problems.

"I just wanted to tell you, Millicent," he said, using her first name with what seemed to Millicent to be a tender note in his voice," that this man encountered Bob Caise in the corridor. He asked Bob Caise to bring him to his father's secretary. That's the reason Bob brought the officer here."

"Oh," Millicent said.

The officer frowned, and stared at young Happ. "What the devil has that got to do with it?" he asked.

"I simply wanted her to know," Norman Happ said, "why it happened that Caise seemed to have brought you to her."

"He brought me here because I told him I wanted to be brought here."

"Exactly," Happ said.

"Look here," the officer told him, "you two get out of here. I'm doing this questioning, and I'm thoroughly capable of doing it."

Happ bowed, moved toward the door, turned and smiled at Millicent. Then he and Caise left the room, closing the door behind them.

The officer stared in frowning concentration at the doorway for a moment, said, "That was a funny way for him to act. He acted almost as though he was giving you some message."

"Oh, did you think so?" Millicent asked innocently.

"Yes," he said, "I thought so."

"But you heard just what he told me. I didn't see anything strange about that."

"It was the way he said it."

"How do you mean?"

"I don't know exactly. He said it as though it was very significant."

"Did he?"

"Yes, he did, and he acted as though he might be in love with you. He seemed to sort of purr that name 'Millicent'."

She could feel color mounting to her cheeks.

"Is he," asked the officer, "in love with you?"

"Why, the idea," she gasped. "I've only been here for a day! I've talked with him only once or twice."

"Who'd been beating up on young Caise?"

"Had someone?"

"The side of his face looked as though he'd been slapped, and he'd either stopped a punch on his jaw, or else I don't know a socked jaw when I see one."

"Certainly," Millicent said, "I didn't sock his jaw, as you call it."

* * *

He let his eyes soften slightly with humor, and said, "How about his face? Did you slap his face?"

"Yes," Millicent said defiantly "I slapped his face, if you want to know."

"Why?"

"It was a personal matter."

"How personal?"

"Very personal."

He stared at her for a minute and then said, "You don't know what time you went to bed?"

"No."

"Did you hear anything unusual afterwards."

"Just how do you mean?"

"Hear anything that sounded like a pistol shot, or anything like that?"

"Oh, no."

"This is your room?"

"Yes."

"You couldn't hear a small caliber gun fired back in the chauffeur's room, anyway," the officer said.

"A small caliber gun?" she echoed questioningly, trying to avoid the appearance of sparring with him, yet seeking to draw him out and save herself as much questioning as possible.

"Yes, a small caliber gun. Someone shot Harry Felding with a small caliber gun."

"When?" she asked.

"Probably around half-past four or five o'clock this morning."

"Oh," she said.

"Someone who was waiting for him inside the room where he sleeps. Felding had been out He'd taken one of the cars—probably Bob Caise's car. He'd run out of gasoline and come back to the house. Apparently, he'd walked back. We found Caise's car down the street. It was out of gas. Harry Felding opened the door of his room, and someone popped him with a pistol."

He stared at her forwningly and said, "It was one of those little toy vest-pocket pistols."

"A toy?"

"I'd call it a toy. It was one of those little automatics that's made to fit into a lady's handbag, but it did the job all right—one shot—right smack through the heart."

She shook her head slowly and said, "I didn't hear any shot."

"Okay," he told her. "I'm sorry I bothered you, but I'm just making a check-up on everyone. It doesn't look like an inside job. You don't know anything about who his enemies were, or anything of that sort?"

She said slowly. "I've been here such a short time, you know."

"Yes, I know," he said, and turned toward the door. In the doorway, he turned and said "Looks like a stick-up of some sort. You didn't know whether he was carrying any money with him, did you?"

"Mr. Happ would be the only one who would know that—that is, Mr. Jarvis Happ. Norman's father."

"Okay," he said, and left the room.

She waited until she heard his steps diminishing down the corridor, then ran to the closet and groped around until she found the leather key container.

She knew that she must get rid of this tell-tale bit of evidence She held it in her hand, stared helplessly about her. The door to the corridor seemed to be more a source of danger than of safety. Should she leave the room carrying this key container, she might run into Bob Caise.

She turned toward the window looked down into the yard, with

THE MEANING OF THINGS

Low hung the sun above the hills,
The valleys gray with fading light,
And in the woods the whip-poor-wills
Already sang the song of night.
A maiden watched beside the bars
The coming of her man of men—
For what cared they if sun or stars
If but they two were here again?

Even the crimson of the sun,
The beauty of descending day,
Can mean so little unto one,
Another one not far away.
I marvel that such things as gold,
Or poverty, or heights we touch,
Can ever the importance hold
Of other things that mean so much.

I'd rather be a shepherd boy
Who hears the swallows when they sing,
Or know the simplest maiden's joy,
Than live a queen or die a king.
I'd rather love, and even lose,
I'd rather live, howe'er it be,
Than some security to choose
That meant no more than that to me.

Stories in STAMPS

The LIBERATORS of the WESTERN WORLD

THE Pan-American Congress of 1909 brought out new stamps from several American countries, but perhaps the most glowing tribute to the founders of independence in the western hemisphere is the 1909 issue of Brazil. The stamp portrays the five great liberators of the Americas surrounding a symbolic figure of Brazil. These national heroes are George Washington, "Father" of the United States, Simon Bolivar, "Liberator" of Colombia, Venezuela, Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia, Jose Bonifacio, Brazil's "Patriarch of Independence"; Bernardo O'Higgins, head of the first permanent national government of Chile; and Miguel Hidalgo, patriot priest of Mexico.

"A-Smelting We Will Go"

Now that the smelt run is well under way in the Escanaba area, bushel baskets of the shiny fish are just an ordinary occurrence, but the three men shown above had the honor of bringing in the firsh bushel-full after Kingfish Harry Long officially opened the dip-netting season. They are shown just as they emerged from the stream at Wells. Left to right, those in the picture are: Andrew Schwartz, Francis Schwartz and Walter Jepson.

Hundreds Take Part In Smelt Dipnetting At Various Streams

Hundreds of sportsmen participated in the community smelt dipnetting bee last night in order to gather enough fish to ship to the various outside organizations as a publicity stunt to attract tourists to the upper peninsula next summer.

Due to the fact that the smelters were staying out at the streams until a late hour, it was unable to determine how many pounds of fish were caught for the Wolverine Conservation association's "Share the Smelt" fund.

The members of the Wolverine Conservation association, Knights of Columbus, Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and other citizens assembled at various streams, including the Ford river, Bark river, Days river, Squaw creek, Tacoosh river, Sturgeon and Fishdam rivers.

Ray Neuman Again

Ray Neuman and his squad came through with the largest smelt contribution yesterday as a result of Monday night's efforts. Included in his party were C. Arthur Anderson, Peter Ethier, and George Herro. Mrs. Neuman also kept the all-night vigil, being of great service in making coffee and chili for the hungry fishermen. The Neuman party dipnetted a total of 360 pounds, which were delivered to the Hansen and Jensen fish market and credited to the Wolverine Conservation association.

Tom J. Lynott, announced yesterday that the Northwest Fruit company's employees would go out with a truck tonight to get smelt for the Wolverine Conservation association. He issued a challenge to any other business concern for a contest to see whose employees would get the most smelt.

All May Help

It has been learned that a number of civic-minded citizens would help the cause, but are not in a position to do the actual dipnetting themselves. The contest committee has ruled that any citizen may subsidize an individual to get smelt for him or may purchase the smelt and donate it to the Wolverine club. Such action would make him eligible to compete in the contest the same as the dipnetters.

Such citizens who wish to help the tourist publicity project are advised to communicate with Roy Olson, treasurer of the Wolverine Conservation association, at the First National Bank, the arrangements will be made for the purchase and donation of smelt. The individual will be credited in the contest with the number of pounds of smelt bought and contributed to the organization.

Big Demand for Smelt

There has been an unprecedented demand for smelt this year, partly due, it is believed, to the nation-wide publicity given to this fish by the Wolverine Conservation association in promoting the Northern Michigan Smelt Run Jamboree. As a result, unemployed are finding a means of earning considerable cash income. Fish buyers have been paying from three to four and a half cents during the past week, depending on the market quotation on the particular day. The commercial demand for smelt, incidentally, has made it quite difficult for the Wolverine Conservation club to receive donations.

Stephenson Avenue Office Is Robbed; Table Radio Taken

A burglary at the Northern Flour and Grain company office, 422 Stephenson avenue, is being investigated by the Escanaba police department. The place was entered through a south side window of the office. A small size table radio was apparently the only item taken by the marauders.

Navigation Opens, Shipping to Start In About 2 Weeks

Great Lakes navigation is now open between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron, but there is still ice in the south passage at the Straits of Mackinac. The U. S. coast guard cutter Escanaba returned to her home port at Grand Haven after breaking through the north passage. The work of the cutter added a full month of operations to Great Lakes shipping, which is expected to get under way within two weeks.

Although navigation on the Great Lakes and the Straits of Mackinac did not start until April 28 last year, Capt. Charles H. Hubbard, superintendent of the governmen lighthouse services at Milwaukee, said the straits would probably be cleared of ice by April 10. Col. Harry M. Trippe, district army engineer, said navigation of the upper and lower Fox river, Lake Winnebago and the Wolf river thru New London, Wis., will open at 6 a. m. Monday, April 15.

The lighthouse tenders Hyacinth and Sumac have left Milwaukee to set buoys and other navigation aids along both shores of the lake.

Bids will be opened Wednesday in Colonel Trippe's department on the last section of the Green bay harbor dredging project, costing $300,000. Colonel Trippe will conduct a hearing April 29 on proposed additional improvements to the Green bay harbor.

TRENARY NEWS

Word has been received of the death at his home in Detroit of George Friedley on March 21. Mr. Friedley had been ill only a short time. The message contained no details.

Mr. Friedley was well known in Trenary, having made his home here for some years. During his residence here he held a number of township offices. About 16 years ago he left Trenary for Florida where he lived for a number of years before returning to Michigan and taking up residence in Detroit.

He is survived by his wife and three sons. Two of the sons are members of the Detroit police force.

It has been estimated that this country has 12,163,000 horses and 4,981,000 mules.

Fashion Revue Is Attractive Presentation

The charm and smartness of a new spring mode were displayed in a manner in which these two attributes were decidedly in evidence, in the Spring Style Show staged Tuesday evening by the Escanaba Woman's club in cooperation with the Fair Store, in the style revue department, second floor, of the store.

The show, a benefit with all proceeds going to the welfare committee of the Woman's club in furtherance of its worthy activities, attracted capacity crowds for both shows, with all available seating space occupied.

The style revue, opening with dress suits, among theme a lovely model of navy with dyed blue fox, a new note in fashions, presented in order: children's coats, trim and delightful in style and color note; sports and street suits, outstanding among which the blue and white checked top-coat over a tailored navy blue cheviot, dressmaker, costume, swagger and action back models; sport coats, ramblers and tweeds; dress coats; boucles of gorgeous aqua, turquoise, flame, and copper tints, clever in design; prints in the pink and navy and the green and brown combinations; a collection of attractive navy dresses which this spring means navy with pink, with white, with gold, or with chamois; children's play frocks and dress-up frocks of sheer organdies; navy dotted sheer chiffons, and the closing group, the dinner and Sunday night dresses, of nets and chiffons, including the still popular jacket mode.

Every ensemble in the style revue showed remarkable taste in costuming, with hats, shoes, bags, gloves and jewelry note, which features wide carved bracelets, in clever harmonizing tones, completing a perfect ensemble.

The models who formed a charming group were Betty Pettit, Evelyn and Esther Johnson, Catherine Semer, Helen Roche, Edna Fulton, Marianne Duranceau Ostman and Catherine Connelly Laviolette, and Mrs. A. W. Blom of Menominee, formerly of this city, who displayed the attractive matron ensembles which combined smartness and good taste; and the adorable youngsters, who were Dolores Groos, Barbara Walch and her sister, Mary Margaret, Bonnie Jean Caluette, Dorothy Valley and Pauline Stegath.

Music for the revue was played by Chet Morton and his Buddies, and explanatory comment on the costumes which added much to the enjoyment of the show was given by Charles Gessner.

The successful presentation was directed by Mrs. Harold Groos, chairman of the welfare committee of the Woman's club, assisted by a group of club members and members of the Fair Store staff.

Industry Topic Of Talks Given At Club Meeting

An interesting program featuring talks on industrial projects was given at the well attended dinner meeting of the Escanaba Business and Professional Women's club, held Monday evening at the Hotel Ludington.

Mrs. Goldie Johnson of Bark River, member of an automobile sales staff, gave an education talk on automobiles and showed interesting motion pictures of the construction of an automobile from the raw material stage to the finished product.

Miss Dorothy Hoag, member of the office staff of a wholesale grocery products firm, presented an unusually interesting talk dealing with the progress made in the canning and packing business and the achievements of research in this line. She outlined the history of the canning industry, described the various foods and their origins and also gave a history of tea and coffee and their introduction as beverages in this country.

Miss Lottie Frechette, in charge of current events, told of the women nationally prominent in the present era, and listed their accomplishments.

The next meeting of the club will be held on April 29, rather than on the regular meeting night which falls on Easter Monday.

Lenten Service This Evening

The third of a series of mid-week Lenten services will be held in Methodist church of this city this evening from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock.

These services have been well attended and much interest has been shown throughout. Again the service will feature a chorus choir directed by the pastor. This chorus will lead in the congregational singing.

The scripture and comments will follow the song service and will be from an episode in the life of Christ which occurred in the weeks before the crucifixion. The general theme will be "Another Walk with the Christ."

The closing moments of the service will be kept for the reception of members into the church.

"TOOK ALL KINDS OF PILLS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF"

Constipation, Due to Insufficient "Bulk," Relieved by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

A fine letter from Mrs. Snyder:

"I have had trouble* with my bowels for years, taking all kinds of pills and drugs, with no relief.

"One year ago, I saw Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and bought a package. I have good movements every day. I am 73 years old. I am telling my friends what bran has done for me."—Mrs. Sallie Snyder, 918 N. Craft Ave., Hollywood, Cal.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B, as well as iron, an element of the blood.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to correct common constipation. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this food in place of patent medicines.

At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Broadway Shows Nation Big Hits

JUDITH ANDERSON

BY PAUL HARRISON

New York.—So far as the theatre is concerned, Broadway is thousands of miles long just now, traversing Times and Longacre Squares, branching into the side streets dotted with bright marquees, and vanishing to reappear in such scattered points as Buffalo, Washington, Chicago and San Francisco.

As a matter of fact, Broadway's best shows now are to be found in these outposts of the drama. The local rialto shelters only about a dozen genuine successes, and as many more less distinguished offerings. Meanwhile "the road," for which so many epitaphs have been written in recent seasons, is busy and prospering.

"As Thousands Cheer" has had capacity business during its long meanderings. Currently the revue is in the south, skipping through Alabama and Tennessee toward Texas and west-coast cities to work back east and wind up in Milwaukee in May. All this is being done, too, without the aid of Clifton Webb and Helen Broderick, whose health forced them to leave the cast.

* * *

George M. Cohan and the company of "Ah, Wilderness!" have cut one of the widest swathes in touring history. Erie, Pa., turned out bands and banners for him. Ohio and western Pennsylvania provided the biggest box office grosses ever seen in those parts. The tour ends in Albany.

Another Theatre Guild production, "Mary of Scotland," with Helen Hayes and Philip Merivale, played to standing-room-only for four nights in Buffalo, and now is swinging down through Ohio. A third Guild show, "Rain From Heaven," with Jane Cowl, has just departed Broadway for the midland trail.

Walter Huston in "Dodsworth" provided the greatest success of the Washington season. He scored again in Boston, a town which has been full of excellent plays all season, and at this writing is swinging southward. "Ode to Liberty," with Ina Claire, moved from Philadelphia to Boston, trading theatres with "Hollywood Holiday," a play starred by Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon and Skeets Gallagher.

"Life begins at 8:40," the smash-hit Shubert revue, finally departed Manhattan to tarry for a sell-out week at Pittsburgh's Nixon. Bert Lahr, Luella Gear and Ray Bolger are still with the cast. Washington, Philadelphia, and Chicago are next on the program. Pittsburgh, incidentally, has shared nearly all of Broadway's better attractions this year. Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne go there for a week in April in "The Taming of the Shrew."

* * *

Cornelia Otis Skinner and her mono-dramas have been seen as far west as Kansas City and Milwaukee this season, equaling or exceeding her records of past years wherever she appeared. Now she has written a whole new play, "A Mansion on the Hudson," in which she plays all the parts. Philadelphia and Washington critics acclaimed it with delight. I often wonder whether it was Miss Skinner who taught Joe Cook how to imitate four Hawaiians.

Cleveland and Cincinnati have had a steady procession of Broadway shows this season, and the former recently presented a local company in Sidney Howard's "Yellow Jack." Chicago has finished with the D'Oyly Carte Gilbert and Sullivan company, which has moved to Detroit. The Loop's only remaining legitimate offering was "The First Legion," with an all-male cast headed by Bert Lytell. Detroit has been offering "The Vinegar Tree," "Sailor, Beware" and now "Three Men on a Horse"—the latter a touring company of the current Broadway comedy hit.

St. Louis now gets "Sailor, Beware." Kansas City, Denver and way points have a drama famine at present. San Francisco has the Abbey Players from Ireland and probably will keep them four weeks. Los Angeles has been seeing "Tobacco Road" with Henry Hull, Broadway's original Jeeter Lester. "Tobacco Road" is the oldest play now in Manhattan, and the eastern company will begin a tour in a few weeks, or maybe months.

Broadway itself has been in the doldrums, but with many promises of a late-season revival. Meanwhile, in the midst of several unexpected closings, certain plays which began with unenthusiastic notices have risen into the category of hits.

"The Old Maid" is one of these, a sentimental study of maternal yearning which Zoe Aikins has adapted from Edith Wharton's novel. The story, if you don't recall it, concerns a "poor relation" of one of New York's proudest families, who sacrificed her own happiness that she might remain near her illegitimate daughter. But having done that, she watches the girl grow up calling another woman "mother"—while the real mother becomes the "old maid" of the family circle.

There are two stars—Judith Anderson, as the lovely but childless mother-by-adoption; Helen Menken, as the maternally-conscious spinster who has borne a child out of wedlock. They make gripping drama out of "The Old Maid," and even strong men weep quietly through the third act.

At this meeting committees will be appointed and an outline of the seal sale drive which opened April 1, to continue one month, will be made.

Theatres

AT THE DELFT

The most beautiful and powerful love story to reach the screen in the memory of this reviewer is being enacted at the Delft Theatre. Ronald Colman and Loretta Young are the principals and "Clive of India," the first million dollar production of Darryl F. Zanuck and Joseph M. Schenck's 20th Century Pictures company, which last season gave us "The House of Rothschild," is the vehicle.

But this true story of Robert Clive, a poor young clerk in the East India Company, who conquered an Empire at 26 and became England's greatest hero, only to see his star fall when the woman he loved had drifted from his side, is more than a great love story—it is a reflection of a life of truly heroic proportions — of staggering achievement, attained because a man believed in his own destiny.

The play of the same name on which the screen play is based enjoyed almost two years' run on the London stage and 20th Century is well rewarded for its conscientiousness in bringing the authors, W. P. Lipscomb and R. J. Minney all the way to Hollywood to make their own adaptation, and following up this gesture with a truly magnificent production.

One secret of its greatness—if secret it is—is certainly that "Clive of India" dares tell the whole truth about a great man, glossing over nothing—not even the man's less admirable deeds.

The seventy-odd remaining speaking roles are expertly filled by such popular and expert players as Colin Clive, Francis Lister, the brilliant English stage star who scored on Broadway last season, C. Aubrey Smith, Cesar Romero, Lumsden Hare, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Mischa Auer, Doris Lloyd and others. Directed by the brilliant Richard Boleslawski for release through United Artists, "Clive of India" offers powerful drama, stirring spectacle, exquisite romance and perfect entertainment.

The Heart of the Community

THE yellow moon drops below the horizon. One by one the houses darken as silence settles over the countryside. It is a time of rest, of slumber.

But there is one building where rest does not enter, where the windows never darken; for the work of the telephone exchange, like the work of a sleeper's heart, must go on by night no less than by day.

Here trained operators, alert and skilful, sit at the junction of many wires. Here are linked all who would speak across the miles of darkness. . . . Somewhere an anxious mother is wakened by a childish, fretful cry. . . . Somewhere furtive footsteps betray the presence of a prowler. . . . Somewhere, in a cellar, smouldering rags send warning smoke drifting through a home. . . . At some lonely crossing two cars crash and overturn.

In these emergencies, help is as close as the nearest telephone. Over a waiting wire speeds the call for aid—for the doctor, police, fire department, an ambulance. If that wire were not waiting, there would be heavier penalties of grief and loss; help, at times, would arrive after help had ceased to be of use. Faithfully rendering a vital service both night and day, the telephone exchange plays a part which makes it, in a sense that is very real, the heart of the community.

DEATH CLAIMS LOUIS CRETENS

Retired Businessman Dies While Visiting Abroad

Louis C. Cretens, retired Gladstone businessman, passed away March 19 in Belgium, his homeland, according to a message received here yesterday. Mr. Cretens had been visiting in Belgium since last June and had already booked passage for his return to this country when death claimed him. He had been ill for a time during the winter months but had recovered and was apparently in good health according to a letter received here about a week ago. He was in his 75th year. Death was attributed to complications.

Born at Oud Heverlee-Brabant, Belgium, February 7, 1861, Louis Cretens came to America in 1890 locating first at Green Bay. He came to Gladstone in 1890. In 1914 he founded the Gladstone Potash company, manufacturing potash and it proved a thriving business during the days of the World War. In 1918 he took over the Lyric theatre and managed and operated it until 1927 when he retired from active business. He also established the Gladstone Steam Laundry.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Mary Cretens, two sons and two daughters, Edward of Schulen, Belgium; Charles, Mary and Mrs. Charles Brotherton of this city. There are also a brother, Joseph Cretens of Escanaba, and seven grandchildren.

Catholic funeral rites were held on March 23 at Schuelen, Belgium and interment was made at this village.

Mrs. Cretens, who was with Mr. Cretens in Belgium is expected to return soon to her home here, accompanied by her son, Edward.

THEATRES

Will Rogers has played an amazing variety of roles. In the fifteen talking pictures he has made to date, the start has been an oil millionaire, a mid-western farmer, a hobo, a meat packer, a druggist, a Kentucky judge and many other things.

But until now Will has never enacted the role for which he is perhaps best fitted of all—a politician. In real life he is one of the best-informed and keenest students of politics in the entire country, but until he made "The County Chairman," which will begin a three day engagement at the Rialto theatre today, he has never had an opportunity to transfer such a character to the screen.

Hailed as "the laughing lowdown on the world's dizziest city," the production, "365 Nights in Hollywood," will begin an engagement today on the screen of the Rialto Theatre.

All advance reports state that here at last is a story with a new slant on Hollywood. Written by Jimmy Starr, the movie colony's ace columnist and commentator, "365 Nights in Hollywood" tells the story of a girl, a boy and two adagio ice-men who turn the flicker city upside down.

Interesting news in The Want Ad. Section Today.

Vagrant Is Given 10 Days In Jail

A strange character who gave his name as Frank Duffy and his address as New York City was yesterday brought before Justice A. T. Sohlberg on a vagrancy charge and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail. In the meantime authorities are checking with police in New York to determine if Duffy is wanted in that city, or if he has a record.

Duffy, who has been about Gladstone for the past ten days, had aroused suspicion by his queer actions and last Saturday night was picked up here by officers who believed he might be the person who committed the two sluggings within recent weeks.

Duffy denied participation or knowledge of the local crimes.

BETTER HOUSING CENSUS IS OKED

Corps of Workers Picked from Relief Rolls Starts Soon

Notice has been received by Wm. Marin, Federal Housing Administration chairman for Schoolcraft county of approval under the ERA of a project to conduct a Better Housing census here. The telegram of approval came from L. M. Nims, director of the state work division.

Workers for this census numbering about a dozen have already been selected from the relief rolls and the census will in all probability be started this week.

The census will be a house-to-house survey of the housing situation in Manistique. It will carry to local residents information as to the benefits which are available to them as a result of the National Housing Act passed last June. It will also provide an inventory of the modernization needs here for the Better Housing committee to use in its campaign to secure improvements and provide employment in the building trades.

It is believed that all residents will show every courtesy to the workers in this census which is a part of a great national effort at bettering home and living conditions and at the same time putting men back to work in the nation's building industry.

CITY IS AGAIN IN DEMO RANKS

Titus Given Great Support in School Commissioner Race

Polling in Monday's city, county, and state election was exceptionally heavy in Gladstone, due to a big extent to the interest in the city commission race and the fact that C. P. Titus, candidate for county school commissioner, is a Gladstone man. Persons casting ballots here totalled over 1650, slightly more than a year ago.

The vote throughout the city as a whole was predominatly Democratic in the state election the margin running as high as four to one in the third ward. The second was the only precinct to turn in a Republican plurality.

C. P. Titus, county school commissioner-elect, was accorded signal support carrying every precinct in the city by wide margins and coming out with 1084 votes to 354 for his opponent, C. U. Woolpert.

A yes vote of 786 to 470 noes was recorded on the amendment regarding election recounts.

Following is the commission vote according to precincts:

Train Victim Was Apparently Blinded By Headlight Glare

Gregor Majerus, Soo Line employe at Bradley, Wis., who was killed early Sunday morning by passenger train No. 8 at Heafford Junction, was apparently blinded by the headlight of the train, according to a story appearing in the Rhinelander News.

Majerus was a brother of Mrs. Siger Swenson of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Swenson left Gladstone for Bradley Sunday night to attend the funeral.

The story of the accident appearing in the News:

"Apparently blinded by the headlight of an approaching locomotive and stepping directly onto the tracks again after having walked to one side, Gregor Majerus of Bradley was instantly killed by an eastbound Soo Line passenger train near Heafford Junction early yesterday morning.

"The day was Mr. Majerus' fifty-first birthday anniversary.

"According to word received here (Rhinelander), Mr. Majerus had been at Heafford Saturday night and started to walk down the tracks toward his home. He was familiar with every foot of the track, and with train schedules, having been employed by the Soo Line at Bradley since 1910.

"It is thought he saw the approaching limited and stepped to one side, then became confused in the glare of the locomotive headlight and stepped back into the path of the train. He stumbled forward and was struck by the locomotive.

"The accident occurred near the new underpass on U. S. Highway 51 near Heafford."

Drop Smith-Hughes Work At M. H. S. After This Year

At its last meeting, the Manistique board of Education made a decision to drop the Smith-Hughes course in agriculture from the high school curriculum. The decision was influenced by the fact that the present instructor, Mr. Reed McGee, has been offered a better position and is leaving at the end of the present year. There has also been a lack of demand for the course on the part of students, with the result that the classes are too small to be handled economically.

The board felt that other subjects would more adequately meet the needs of the students. Courses can be arranged to care for the pupils in the Agriculture one and two subjects in one class and equalize the teacher load by freeing an instructor to care for some of the students now being crowded into other classes.

Dropping of the Smith-Hughes work is by no means an irrevocable step as the board has been assured by Mr. Gallup, who is in charge of the Smith-Hughes work in the state, that at any future time that there is a demand, Manistique high school can again be placed on the list of Smith-Hughes schools.

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, April 2 (AP)—A little out of breath after yesterday's short upward spurt, shares gave ground in trading on the New York stock exchange today.

Following Monday's session in the spot-light, the rails drew backstage surrendering the advantage gained on temperate enthusiasm for the rate compromise granted by the interstate commrce commission.

The closing gong found equities down .3 of a point at 36.3 in terms of the Associated Press average of 60 stocks. Trading was somewhat more active at 432,388 shares compared with 444,590 shares on Monday.

Fractional losses ruled among leading industrial equities. Included in the list were U. S. Steel down ¼ at 28 5-8, American Smelting, off ¼ at 132¾, Chrysler with a loss of 5-8 at 33¾, and International Harvester down ½ at 36¾.

A good deal of the market's activity was chalked up to a scattering of the so-called specialty stocks. Losses of 3½ and 6 points were suffered by Armour and Wilson preferred, respectively, under selling ascribed in Wall Street partly to the rising costs of packing products.

BY G. A. PHILLIPS
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, April 2 (AP)—Renewed interest in U. S. government securities, and further nibbling at secondary rails and utilities, helped to give the bond market a steady to firm tone in today's slightly expanded dealings.

Transfers totalled $11,324,000 par value, against $10,935,000 in the previous session. The Associated Press corporate averages were only a shade changed in either direction.

Recoveries of 1-32nd to 8-32nds of a point in the federal section were attributed by some traders to the overnight announcemen that the government would do no additional financing in connection with the payment on April 15, of the remaining called Liberty fourth 4¼s.

Trading favorites dipping slightly included Delaware & Hudson 4s at 76, Great Northern 4½s at 64½ and Pere Marquette 5s at 78. Another spurt in obligations of the St. Paul and Chicago & North Western carried some of them up 2 or more points and higher prices were paid for Western Maryland 4s, International Great Northern first 5s and New York Central consolidated 4s.

Utility bonds continued to edge forward in a quiet manner. Higher prices were paid for American Water Works 6s, Laclede Gas 5½s, North American Edison 5½s and Tennessee Electric Power 6s.

The industrials generally followed a restricted range. Chile Copper 5s again advanced fractionally to 87½, U. S. Rubber 5s eased to 91¼.

ENGINEER SAVES BOY

Menominee—Quick action on the part of John Piper, engineer at the Menominee city water station, saved William Menacher Jr., from drowning in the icy water of the yacht basin after he rode off the breakwater on his bicycle Sunday afternoon.

"Billy" was playing with his chum, Dennis Goodman, 10, son of Frederick Goodman, on the breakwater with their bicycles when the accident occurred. "Billy" rode off the breakwater into 12 feet of water. He broke thru the thin ice near the wall of the breakwater and came up.

Dennis caught hold of him and held on while other boys summoned Mr. Piper who pulled him from the icy water. Police later recovered the bicycle in 12 feet of water. "Billy" apparently suffered no ill effects from his ducking and was in school today.

its walk, its ornamental shrubbery, and its wrought-iron fence separating the yard from that of the house adjoining. There was a summer house, a fountain and a pond of water at the base of the fountain, a pond in which there were water lilies and fish.

Millicent stared steadily at the pond. She believed it was possible to toss the key container out of the window so that it would hit the pond.

She raised the window, estimated the distance carefully, held the key container balanced in her hand, so as to determine its weight.

She heard steps in the corridor. Someone was approaching her door. She gave one frantic glance back at the door, then turned to the window and tossed the key container out toward the pond.

She stood watching it with fascinated eyes. It sailed in a long arc. For a moment she thought it was going too far. Then it dropped rapidly, and she heaved a sigh of relief as she saw it splash into the pond.

She stood there in the window watching the splash subside into eddying waves which rippled the sides of the pond. Suddenly she felt her eyes compelled downward and to one side.

There, standing beneath the window, watching her with a peculiar cynical smile twisting the corners of her mouth, was Cynthia Happ.

NO MORE LOGS

Bessemer — Operations were suspended Saturday at the Underwood Veneer company mill here for an indefinite period. Impossibility of securing logs was cited as a reason by M. H. Keenan, the manager, who said that it is possible that the mill will re-open later on. Poor logging weather in the woods has forced other mills as well as the Underwood to close, he said.

Indians Picked to Win American League Title

DETROIT RATED IN THIRD PLACE

Yankees Ranked Second, Close Behind Walter Johnson's Team

BY BOB CAVAGNARO
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, April 2 (AP)—Major league baseball experts put themselves "on the spot" today, picking the Cleveland Indians, who finished third last year, to capture the 1935 American league pennant.

In one of the closest ballotings in the poll conducted by the Associated Press for the past nine years, Manager Walter Johnson's Tribe received the largest number of first place votes cast by 76 baseball writers and editors.

The Indians polled 25 "firsts," edging their way past the New York Yankees, who drew two less.

Although the Detroit Tigers—last year's winner—went through the 1934 campaign to victory without a serious injury and will put virtually the same team on the field this year, they reecived 13 votes to finish first, barely enabling them to nose out the strongly bolstered Boston Red Sox by one vote. Philadelphia's Athletics drew three votes to lead the league.

The Tigers polled 35 second place votes. The Yankees were second with 18 and the Indians third with 17.

Detroit was the only club figured by the writers to wind up the season somewhere in the first division of the league. Besides drawing 35 second place votes they also polled 25 for third and three for fourth. Three writers voted for the Indians to land in fifth place and six gave the Yankees votes to finish in the same spot.

The Athletics polled votes for every position while the Red Sox were picked for every one except eighth. The last three places went to the Washington Senators—last year's choice—to finish sixth, the St. Louis Brown to finish seventh and the Chicago White Sox for the cellar.

Brooklyn Defeats St. Louis Browns

Orlando, Fla. (AP)—With Johnny Babich going the route and allowing only six hits, the Brooklyn Dodgers broke their losing spell Tuesday defeating the St. Louis Browns 8 to 1.

Babich pitched scoreless ball for seven innings but in the eighth two hits, one of the seven walks handed out by the Brooklyn hurler, and an infield out gave the Browns their only run. The Dodgers got to Buck Newson for six runs and seven hits in the first four innings, and found Howard Mills, recruit southpaw, for two more in the next two frames. Fay Thomas, former Giant and Dodger right hander, held the Brooklynites scoreless in the last two innings.

DETROIT LOSES TO CINCINNATI

Reds Put on 4-Run Rally in Ninth to Win, 8 to 6

Lakeland, Fla., April 2 (AP)—A four-run rally in the ninth by Cincinnati's Red spelled an 8-6 defeat for the Tigers today.

It was the final game of the training camp season for both teams. The clubs will start the trek north Wednesday, barnstorming together in various cities along the way.

Al Crowder held the Reds even for eight innings today, but wilted in the final frame, in which Cincinnati scored half of its runs. The Bengals threatened in their half of the ninth, but were held to two tallies in that stanza.

Ernie Lombardi, giant catcher, was the man of the hour for the Reds. He garnered four hits, including a triple and a double, in as many trips to the plate, was responsible for all the Reds' runs in the first eight innings and started the rally in the ninth.

Hank Is Hot

Hank Greenberg, Tiger first sacker, ran Lombardi a close race for individual honors in the slugfest. Hank, who contended himself with a daily double earlier in the training season, outdid himself against Cincinnati. He clouted out a home run, a double and a single in five times up.

Tony Freitas and LeRoy Hermann gave the Tigers 10 hits in all, while Crowder yielded 11 before he was replaced by Clyde Hatter with one man out in the ninth.

Billy Myers earned a place in the ranks of the heavy hitters with a home run and a single. Morgan, Gehringer and Rogell connected with triples. Fox and Riggs hit doubles.

Manager Mickey Cochrane has chosen Schoolboy Rowe to pitch against the Reds in the next game, which will be at St. Augustine Thursday. Mickey said he would let his ace go the route if the latter felt up to it.

Gar Wood Opens Up Miss America X

Miami Beach, Fla., April 2 (AP)—Gar Wood opened up his Miss America X's 7,400 horsepower today for the first time over Biscayne bay and called for a measured mile of water.

The famous speed boat driver said he would attempt to break his own world record of 124.86 miles an hour "in all probability" Saturday, weather permitting.

Asked if he had the throttle wide open, Wood answered that it "was right down the old corner."

He added that he was satisfied with the performance after he had for the first time felt the powerful, supercharged 48-cylinder plant working at full throttle.

The veteran Algonac, Mich., speedster avoided estimates of the speed of Miss America X but he did say:

"You can say we equalled, or bettered, the salt water world record of 111.71 made here three or four years ago in Miss America IX."

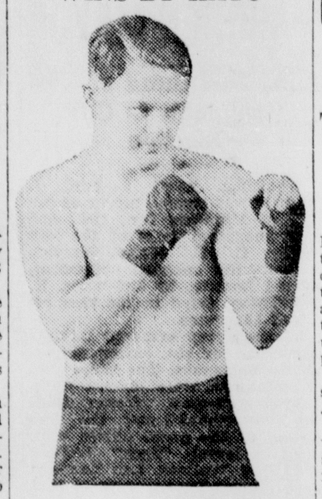
He based this conclusion solely on the "feel" of the boat as it skimmed the soft rollers, smoke pouring from exhausts and a fleecy ribbon in its wake.

Model Carvings In Ivory Stolen

Detroit, April 2. (AP)—Officials of the Detroit Institute of Arts told police today that two tiny fifteenth century French religious carvings in ivory had been stolen from the medieval room of the museum.

Clyde H. Burroughs, secretary of the Institute Founders' society, said the missing miniatures were worth $750. He said other carvings in the same glass case were worth as much as $10,000, and expressed the belief that children unaware of the real value of the objects, had taken them.

WINS BY KAYO



Roy Anderson, young Gladstone boxer, scored a knockout victory over Buck Betzinger, hard-hitting Menominee scrapper, on a fight card at Marinette Monday night. Anderson downed his tough opponent in the second round for a count of nine and put him away in the third round.

The Gladstone boy, who has been fighting for three years, fights at 170 pounds, and has been fooling folks about his age because of his size. He has been in a CCC camp, but was released recently because his age was found to be under the limit.

JONES IS FAR OFF HIS GAME

Bobby Real Magnet for Augusta National Tournament

Augusta, Ga., April 2 (AP)—Bob Jones, still playing the part of the genial southern host with more pronounced success than golf, may be the magnet that has attracted so renowned a field of shotmakers for the second annual Augusta national invitation tournament, but his long-time rival, Gene Sarazen is the target they will all have to worry about when the firing begins Thursday.

In the midst of a general assault upon old man par today, with 60 professionals and amateurs answering the roll call, Sarazen cracked the course's stubborn resistance with a 67, his third subpar round in four days.

There were a number of other crackling practice rounds, including a 67 by the veteran Bob McDonald of Chicago.

Southern sentiment, measured by actual cash wagered, was still potent enough to make Jones a 6 to 1 choice, with Sarazen next at 7 to 1. Horton Smith, Paul Runyan, Ed Dudley, Henry Picard Craig wood, Tommy Armour, Harry Cooper and Olin Dutra, the national open champion, ranged from 10 to 15 to 1 on the price-makers slate.

Jones, playing today with Ed Dudley in a practice match with Paul Runyan and Horton Smith showed some improvement by carding a 72, even par, but the former world champion's game is still a full brassie shot away from the consistency he will need to challenge the top-ranking professionals seeking the majority portion of $5,000 in prize money.

UPSETS MARK GOLF TOURNEY

Two Favorites Defeated In Pinehurst North and South Meet

Pinehurst, N. C., April 2 (AP)—Dick Chapman and Jack Ryerson two of the favorites, were tumbled out of the North and South amateur golf championship today along with M. Pierpont Warner the 1932 champion, in a flurry of upsets in the first round of match play.

Chapman, Greenwich, Conn. star, bowed one up to Johnny Johnson of Lumberton, N. C.

Howard Tryon of Elmira, N. Y. who squeezed into the championship flight via the playoff route fired a sub-par round to trounce Ryerson, a former Yale ace from Cooperstown, N. Y., 6 and 4.

Warner lost a battle with R. P Davidson of Washington, one up

George T. Dunlay, jr., of Kew Gardens, L. I., the defending champion, rallied after starting 3-6, and handed J. E. Cooker of Providence, R. I., a 6 and 5 lacing Ray Lenehan of Providence, the medalist, also advanced with a 3 and 1 victory over Robert Lowery, Shamokin, Pa.

Others coming through to the first round of match play were D L. Allen, Pittston, Pa., and Morgan Sargent, Quincy, Mass. Tryon and Allen won on the first hole of the playoff with a birdie 3 and par 4 respectively, but Sargent had to go nine holes before F. C. Robertson, former Vermont champion, yielded him the third place.

Allen fell in the first round before Charley Clare of New Haven, Conn., 2 up, and Sargent was beaten by F. J. Allen, Pittston, Pa., 5 and 3.

Tomorrow's feature second round match will pit Dunlap against W. Stanton Barbour of Bronxville, N. Y., both former Princeton golfers.

Lenehan will meet Dick Lunn former District of Columbia champion, who advanced through the first round with a 1 up victory over Bob Harlow of St. Petersburg, Fla.

BEAT BULLDOGS

Dublin, Ga. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals idled through a haphazard exhibition Tuesday by trimming the University of Georgia Bulldogs 11 to 5, in a loose game featured by 17 Red Bird hits.

Dizzy Dean started on the hill for the world champions and let the collegians down on seven hits and three runs in his five innings. Ed Heusser finished the game, allowing three hits and a pair of tallies. A crowd of 3,500 saw the game.

Malone Makes Good Start With Yankees

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—Although Pat Malone pitched one run, four-hit ball the first five innings in his American league debut, the New York Yankees were forced to come from behind with a three-run rally in the ninth to defeat the Boston Braves 7 to 5 in the final of their nine-game exhibition series Tuesday.

After Malone had left the mound, the Braves fell on Jimmy Deshong for four runs and six hits with Wally Berger hitting a homer with two on in the seventh to put the National leaguers in the lead. Leo Mangum, who followed Ed Brandt and Ben Cantwell on the mound for the Braves, was the victim of the Yanks' ninth inning rally, in which Hill and Selkirk cracked out doubles and Rolfe, Dickey and Walker singled.

GARDEN TOLD TO GET BUSY

Must Produce Contracts For Heavyweight Tilt Before April 16

New York, April 2 (AP)—The New York state athletic commission today tossed the heavyweight boxing championship problem back into Madison Square Garden's lap.

A week ago the commission took charge of the situation by designating James J. Braddock, the Jersey City veteran, the leading contender for the title and decreed that before Max Schmeling could meet champion Max Baer in this state, at least, he must first meet and defeat Braddock.

Today the commission ordered the Garden's matchmaker, James J. Johnston, to produce a signed contract for either a Braddock-Schmeling bout or a championship Baer-Braddock contest by April 16 by the fathers.

"We're giving the Garden a break," Chairman John J. Phelan said. "We could have made them put their cards on the table today. Now they have two weeks to either line up Schmeling for a trial against Braddock or produce a contract for a Baer-Braddock championship bout.

"We are anxious to have the championship bout held in New York state and by giving the Garden two weeks' grace we feel we're doing our part. There's plenty of time left for Schmeling to come over here, train for a fight with Braddock, and, assuming he wins, go back into training for a fight with Baer. However, it begins to look like Schmeling has no intention of fighting in this country."

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, was reported to be in conference somewhere in the midwest with Ancil Hoffman, Baer's pilot. Phelan cleared up a report that Jacobs was acting for Schmeling without authority. He produced a contract signed by the German fighter on Dec. 3, 1930, designating Jacobs his manager for a period of five years.

The commission notified Mike Jacobs, representing the 20th Century Sporting Club, to produce the signed contracts for the announced lightweight title bout between Champion Barney Ross and Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y. Jacobs already has filed the required papers for the Primo Carnera-Joe Louis heavyweight argument to be held in the Yankee stadium in June but the date for this and all other outdoor shows will not be allotted until two weeks' hence.

The commission announced it had granted a license to Louis to box in this state.

Phillies Win, 8-2, Over Rochester

Bartow, Fla. (AP)—Three pitchers held the Rochester Red Wings of the International league to six hits Tuesday, and the Phillies won, 8 to 2.

After Joe Bowman and Earl Stratton got safely by with but one hit apiece against them, Hal Kelleher took the mound in the ninth and was hit for a brace of singles and a double that accounted for the Rochester runs.

ATHLETICS LOSE, 3-2

Charlotte, N. C. (AP)—The Syracuse Chiefs of the International league scalped the Athletics, 3 to 2 Tuesday.

The old war club bounced out only two hits, but they were enough when coupled with four free passes and a triple by Savino. Pink Higgins opened the scoring for the A's with a homer over the left field fence in the sixth.

ONLY RAINFALL CAN SAVE AAA

Drouth in Corn Growing Area Would Prove Worst Blow

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
(Copyright 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)

Washington, — Secretary Wallace hopes a kind Providence loves him better than the politicians do. Otherwise, the AAA will be sunk.

Drouth conditions paralleling those of last year would make good the assertions of those who insist the farm program already has collapsed.

Even the administration would be tempted to join those who insisted the 1934 drouth was punishment for transgression of a divine law against crop reduction.

Given a break by the weather, however, AAA probably will continue with no great change. Current political attacks from cotton states and popular reaction against high food prices aren't expected to grow strong enough to interfere.

AAA and processing taxes are the best answer to the farm problem the administration has been able to think of and the other programs suggested are too radical for its present mood.

Wallace has a statistical hole ace which he thinks will help stall off the cotton state senators, though he isn't talking about it. Cotton exports, to the accomplishment of loud wails, have fallen to 60 per cent of the previous 10-year average.

But foreign consumption of American cotton has dropped to but 80 per cent, which indicates foreign buyers purchased heavily when cotton was cheap and have been using up large stores.

* * *

Export Rise Expected

Exports, according to this theory, should be rising again by April or May. Industrial exports have been only 66 2-3 per cent of the 10-year average.

Southern senators are seeking a high government loan value on cotton, abolition of the processing tax, and an export bounty. Present indications are they won't get any of those things, though the politicians may be able to force a higher loan figure than Wallace would prefer.

Pressure last year caused it to be set at 12 cents a pound instead of 10, as Wallace wanted. Other things being equal, the loan price will be set next August at about the market price as the marketing year begins.

* * *

Japanese Goods Flood In

The 25 cent production cut for the cotton texile mills is a result of NRA's insistance on preserving the existence of certain high cost mills which would be forced out of business if the government laid no restraints on competition.

Contrary to what seems a widespread impression, it wasn't caused by a flood of Japanese imports. Nor is there any evidence that the processing tax on cotton has been an important contributory factor in the industry's position.

Increase in imports of Japanese goods has been starting enough. In fact, the National Industrial Recovery Board had the jitters the other day when it found that imports of Japanese bleached cotton cloth had leaped and bounded from 3960 yards in January, 1934, to 2,633,000 in January, 1935, and 4,348,000 in February.

But cotton cloth imports are still only about one-half of 1 per cent of domestic consumption. And Japan is the only country which has continued to buy its normal quota of American raw cotton.

Fear Farm Chiseling

Drouth in the corn belt where rainfall thus far has been normal, would be about the worst blow the AAA could think of now, when the western edge of the wheat belt is the chief prospective sufferer.

Another cut of a billion bushels in the corn crop would mean meat prices reduction probably couldn't stand the strain.

Current higher prices have also led AAA to fear secretly that it will be harder in the future to keep farmers from "chiseling" on reduction contracts.

Combined with a relatively unrestored city purchasing power, this might lead to a partial return of the surplus conditions existent when AAA started.

Wheat farmers, now that crop restrictions have been abandoned and they are to receive benefit payments for reductions they don't make, may insist that the arrangement be continued — though they're signed up for an anticipated reduction program next year.

The reason AAA continued to pay them was that it had signed up with them for a three-year program.

Meanwhile, Wallace and his men find some comfort in the belief that meat prices aren't going much higher, if any. Housewives are finding substitutes for meat, many people can't buy it any more, and this is the season of year when consumption is most likely to begin falling off in any case. The combination of factors tends to keep down prices.

This Dixie Princess Really Is Twins

A princess who is twins will grace the throne of Memphis' great annual cotton carnival and that's a fact, not a joke. The throngs attending the fete, May 6-11, will see both Jean Boyer, left, and June Boyer, right, wearing the crown, but they'll never know which is which, as the twins' own friends can't tell them apart. One of them was chosen for the honor, but she refused unless her sister could share it. The solution was easy, as a look at the pictures will prove.

A restaurant cashier lost the cash and checks to a robber who stopped him as he walked to a bank.

Detroit (AP)—George R. Fink, president of the National Steel corporation, announced Tuesday that excavation would begin immediately for a steel mill at Ecorse, Detroit suburb, to cost between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000. The mill will be operated by the Great Lakes Steel corporation, a subsidiary of National Steel. Fink said construction work would provide employment for 2,000 men for approximately a year.

25% Of Munising Cars Without Their 1935 License Tags

Munising, April 2—Only 75 per cent of Alger county motorists have purchased either license plates or half years stickers, according to a report from I. J. Lavace, local branch manager for the secretary of state's office. Simultaneously with the report, Alfred Engman, chief of police and Sheriff Louis Pelletier issued warnings to motorists stating that no leniency will be shown to motorists who have neglected to secure their plates, if they are found operating their vehicles either in the city or the county.

Because of the higher rating, Mr. LaFave reports that the bulk of the commercial cars are purchasing half year stickers. To date there has been a total of 680 stickers sold. This includes both passenger and commercial. Of the license plates, 502 passenger, 80 commercials and 30 trailers have been sold.

The total license both stickers and plates sold this year is 1393. This compares with a total of 1862 sold last year about this time, Mr. LaFave declared.

Retiring Commissioner Has Been Educator for Past 45 Years

C. U. Woolpert, county commissioner of schools for Delta county for 20 years and who was defeated for reelection by C. P. Titus, of Gladstone, on Monday, yesterday forwarded his congratulations to Mr. Titus and issued a statement thanking his supporters for the measure of support that was accorded his candidacy.

Mr. Woolpert, over a period of two decades, has established an enviable record in supervising the conduct of the rural schools in Delta county and will retire from office with the satisfying knowledge that he has done an excellent job for the boys and girls of this county. Yesterday he expressed himself as greatly pleased with the measure of support that was accorded him and issued the following statement to the public: "I wish to express my sincere thanks to my many friends who so loyally supported me during the recent campaign."

The retiring commissioner has been identified with the business of education for about 45 years, with a record of 37 years of service in Delta county schools. He served as principal at Perkins for six years and principal at Wells for 11 years before taking over the duties of school commissioner. Prior to that time he was principal at Mackinaw City, Mecosta village, Chase village in Lake county and Alden, Mich.

Mr. Woolpert is a graduate of Ferris Institute and of the Northern State Teachers' college.
